YELLOW SPRINGS REJECTS MANAGER PLAN

VOTERS OPPOSED TO CHANGE; DEFEATED BY LARGE MAJORITY

Heavy Vote Brings 434 To 208 Vote Against Plan

Disapproval of the proposal to establish the commission-manager form of government in Yellow Springs was expressed by the voters at a special election Tuesday when the project was defeated by the overwhelming majority of 44 to 208 in the second heaviest vote recorded in the election history of the village.

Defeat of the issue in Tuesday's balloting prevents any further effort to change the present federal and councilmanic form of government to a charter form for a five-year period, it is said.

Out of the 642 electors in the village of slightly more than 1,400 inhabitants, 642 visited the polls, so general was the interest manifested in the issue by the citizens of the community. Only in the year following the constitutional amendment permitting woman suffrage has a heavier vote been recorded than was cast Tuesday.

Opposition to the plan was apparently stronger in the west, than in the east village precinct. Of the 241 electors who voted in the east precinct, 101 voted for the plan and 140 against it. In the west precinct, 405 voters visited the polls with but 107 favoring the charter form and 298 opposing it.

Agitation for the charter-commission-manager form of government was begun in Yellow Springs about six months ago when a committee of citizens visited South Charleston to study the workings of the charter government in vogue at that small municipality of 1,200 population since 1913. Satisfied the plan would prove advantageous if adopted in Yellow Springs, the committee, with the cooperation of citizens and officials, took the necessary steps to bring the question to a vote at the first of two proposed special elections.

When the polls closed in the evening a large throng of townspeople congregated in the business area to await announcement of the election returns.

Now that the charter proposition is a dead issue, at least for the present, interest will now center around the regular election in November in which all village offices may be contested. No primary will be held, but candidates for mayor, six members of council, clerk, treasurer and other officers will file their nominating petitions about sixty days in advance of the November election.

The 2 to 1 majority vote against the contemplated new form of government came as a surprise because early sentiment prevailing in the community when agitation for a change in the form of government was first started, was said to have been highly favorable to a change.

Had the proposed charter form been accepted by voters at Tuesday's election, a charter would have been drafted and placed before the electors at a second special election this summer, and a village commission would have been elected in November instead of a council.

FRANCE ACCEPTS PLAN WITH ONE CONDITION; IS PREPARING REPLY

Wants Non-Postponable Payments Not To Be Affected

PARIS, June 24.—The French government's reply to the Hoover proposal for a debt moratorium is a provisional acceptance of that proposal, International News Service was informed today from a reliable source.

France's acceptance is conditional, this source stated, upon the provision that the "non-postponable" payments under the Young plan are not to be affected by the moratorium.

The French note, the drafting of which was completed today, points out that the French government desires to join the movement for world-wide rehabilitation, but points out that only parliament is authorized to make any change in the Young plan.

DOOLITTLE SAVES LIFE WITH CHUTE

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., June 24.—Major James H. "Jimmy" Doolittle, famed flyer, by quick action today had saved himself with a parachute jump when wing fabric of a plane of his own design tore loose while he was going 235 miles an hour.

Doolittle noticed the wing tear at an altitude of 100 feet and immediately nosed his plane upward so he would make the leap safely. He left the ship at an altitude of 400 feet, about the minimum at which an aviator can jump with safety. He said the wings were torn from an old plane and evidently unable to stand the strain.

COSTLY REBUKE

COLUMBUS, O., June 24.—The legal battle of the Columbus peanut venter and the Columbus poet is over. And the peanut venter is the victor—to the extent of one cent.

John L. Huff, Negro, who sold peanuts in the state house yard for many years, charged Elliot B. Henderson, Negro poet, owed him at least $300 damages for alleged disrespectful remarks made about Huff's business and his wares.

Judge John R. King, however, ruled that one cent would be adequate compensation.

AVIATRIX FALL TO DEATH WHEN PLANE CRASHES 1000 FEET

Parents See Crash; Federal Probe To Be Started

AKRON, O., June 24.—Federal investigation was expected to be launched today into the death of Miss Mildred Stinaff, 19, noted loop flying aviatrix, who fell to her death at Akron Municipal airport here yesterday when her biplane went into a tailspin at a height of 1,000 feet.

TWO FLEET PLANES CAPTURE IMAGINATION IN OCEAN FLIGHTS; ONE STILL SHORT OF IT'S GOAL

By International News Service

Two fleet airplanes, each bearing a pair of American flyers on a daring journey, braved the limitless ocean expanses yesterday and today.

One, the Winnie Mae, carrying the veteran Oklahoma aviator Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, navigation expert of Los Angeles, arrived successfully in England as first stop on a round the world flight.

The other, christened the Liberty, was believed well out to sea, with Otto Hillig, wealthy Liberty, N. Y., photographer and his Danish-born pilot Holgar Holm aboard. Heading for Copenhagen, the Liberty took off at 5:54 a. m.

Eastern Daylight Saving Time today.

Both planes started from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, jumping off place for many successful and unsuccessful trans-Atlantic flights. Post and Gatty, getting under way with a speed and absence of theatricals unequalled since day Col. Charles A. Lindbergh gave Atlantic flying its never-to-be-forgotten impetus, obtained a fourteen hour jump over their "competitors" in the Liberty.

The Winnie Mae surged away from Harbor Grace at 2:27 p. m. E. S. T. yesterday less than four hours after arriving at the Newfoundland airport from Roosevelt Field, Long Island, starting point and projected terminus of the round-the-world flight.

This carnival of the skies, with one roaring plane streaking after another across the ocean wastes, was unparalleled in the colorful history of North Atlantic flying. The only "wholesale" flights of this sort were the round-the-world journey of four United States naval seaplanes in 1924 and the mass flight across the South Atlantic last year of fourteen Italian planes under the command of General Italo Balbo, Italian minister of war.

But while both those previous expeditions were carefully planned

THREE YOUTHS ARRESTED FOR ROBBERY HERE

Alert Police Work Brings Capture; Recover Loot

(Bulletin)
Burglary of a Standard Oil Co. filling station and unsuccessful attempts to enter the Whitmer pool room and C. H. Gordon "Mill-Top" filling station in Cedarville Tuesday night were admitted by the suspects when quizzed by police Wednesday. They also admitted a burglary and two attempts in Xenia Monday and numerous recent robberies in Dayton. Robert Donaldson is on probation in Dayton and will be prosecuted there. The two others will face delinquency charges here.

Three youthful robber suspects, all residents of Dayton, were captured single-handed about 2 o'clock Wednesday morning by Patrolman Edgar Carder, one of the three newest additions to the police force, who revealed himself as the possessor of a relative memory. The trio, held responsible for the burglary of the Cities Service Oil Co. filling station on S. Detroit St. twenty-four hours previously, in which six pennies, a clock, stamps and a necktie were stolen, was engaged in refilling the gasoline tank of an auto parked in front of a vacant lot on E. Market St. They gave their names as Woodrow Little, 17, of 339 St. Paul Ave.; Robert Donaldson, 18, and Barclay Donaldson, 17, brothers, both of 300 Sherman St., all of Dayton.

The arresting officer found the missing necktie, clock and stamps, and a quantity of other articles, also believed to have been stolen, in the auto. One of the youths tried to escape but the officer persuaded him to give up the idea.

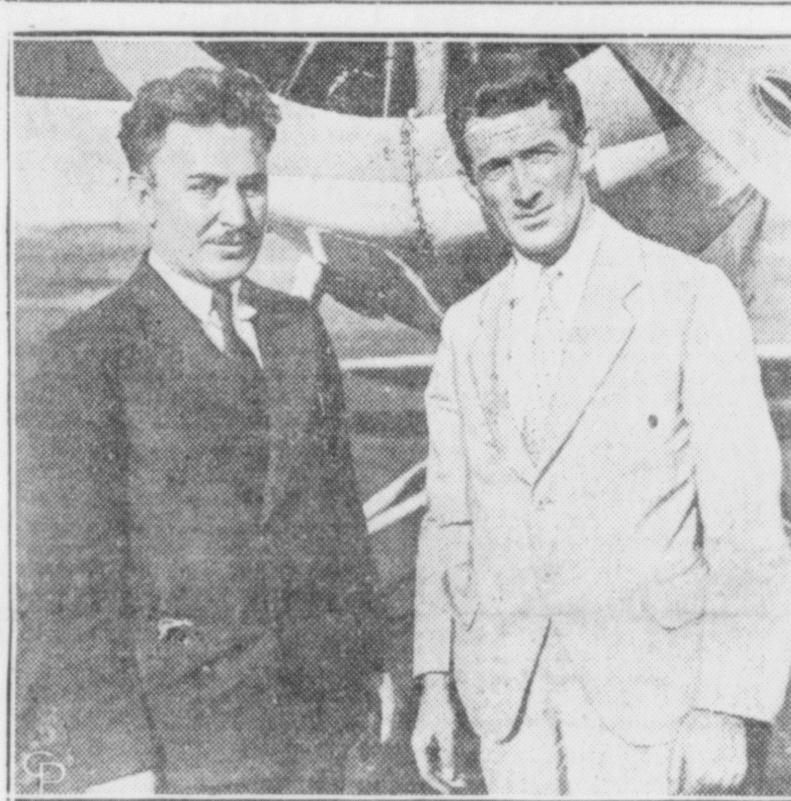

A woman's presence of mind in taking note of the license number on an auto in which three prowlers drove off after her shouts had frightened them away from the O. E. Sturgeon filling station on W. Second St. at 5 a. m. Tuesday was indirectly responsible for the apprehension of the robber suspects.

The woman, whose name was not disclosed by police, lives near the filling station. She gave police the license number and Patrolman Carder kept this in mind in patrolling his beat Tuesday night and the next morning.

When the license plates on a parked Ford coach on E. Market St. corresponded exactly with the tax number given to police, he arrested the three youths.

Three boxes of cigars, a flashlight, three key rings, a cigarette case, a new pocket knife, a tin of tobacco and a candy bar, also found in the car, have not been identified as stolen, but police are checking with the Dayton police department.

GATTY AND POST CONQUER OCEAN

DEMOCRATS OFFER POLITICAL TRUCE BUT URGE RELIEF STEPS

WASHINGTON, June 24.—While proposing a political truce between the two major parties in negotiation of the Hoover debt holiday, Democratic leaders today called on the administration to take new steps toward relieving American unemployment and agricultural distress. Senator Schall (R) Minnesota, insurgent, sought presidential assurance the debt would not be saddled on United States taxpayers.

Senator Walsh (D) Montana, proposed the president summon all governmental officials to a conference to speed federal construction work. He pointed out that projects authorized and approved by congress a year ago have not yet been started. He termed the situation "exasperating."

At the same time, Senator Harrison (D) Mississippi, issued a statement proposing a political armistice in the handling of the Hoover plan for suspending payment of war debts for one year. He warned the administration there would be serious Democratic opposition to any increase in taxes as a result of the holiday.

"Times like these are like times of war, and a political truce should be declared," said Harrison. "So for them on the side. When not at his typewriter, he explored New York. Two years later he became a writer for King Features Syndicate, assigned to the preparation of Sunday Magazine feature pages. Soon he was a star with this organization and his success brought him many important contacts and friendships.

He turned again to the short story and won a year's contract with College Humor at the highest rate ever paid by that magazine for material. Since that time his fame as a writer has grown, both here and abroad and for the last year he has been writing a column for southern papers. Still young, he is a gifted success. SON WOULD JAIL AGED FATHER

NEWARK, O., June 24.—With the help of former Attorney General C. C. Crabbe, Clarence C. Cravel of Patakal, a prominent Licking County politician, today was attempting to send his 80-year-old father, John W. Cravel, to prison for allegedly falsifying his income tax returns.

When the father took cognovit judgment against the son for $21,000 in the courts recently, the son struck back by announcing that his father for five years had given false income returns.

The father and son have been business partners for half a century and reside together in the same house at Patakal.

ITALY ACCEPTS DEBT SUSPENSION

ROME, June 24.—The Italian government has cabled to Washington its acceptance in principle of President Hoover's debt suspension proposal, it was officially announced here today.

POST, GATTY SAFELY CONQUER ATLANTIC; CONTINUE TO BERLIN

Land "Winnie Mae" Unexpectedly For Brief Stop At Chester; Made Trip In Sixteen And One-Half Hours; Is Air Triumph

SEALAND AERODROME, CHESTER, Eng., June 24.—Blazing a round-the-world route through the skies, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, veteran American airmen, successfully completed their trans-Atlantic flight from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, with a landing on the Sealand Aerodrome today, and took off one hour and fifteen minutes later for Berlin, first main stop on their globe-circling journey.

After covering the 2,400 miles from Harbor Grace in sixteen hours and thirty-three minutes at the amazing speed of 150 miles an hour, Post and Gatty landed their powerful plane at the airport at 1 p. m. (7 a. m. Eastern Standard Time.)

At 2:15 p. m. (8:15 a. m. E. S. T.) only a few seconds after word of their safe landing had been flashed to the world, the airmen took their plane aloft again, determined to reach the German capital in as close as possible to the twenty hours they had allotted themselves for the journey.

Although a surprise, the landing of one another, and by the time newspapermen and photographers had been dispatched to the landing field from London and Liverpool, Post and Gatty had already bid farewell to England and were on their way to Germany.

The brief stop-over indicated the airmen found their plane in perfect condition after the gruelling flight across the Atlantic. It was considered likely the halt was made either so that the fliers could get their bearings or else make a careful inspection of their fuel and oil supply before striking over the European continent to Berlin.

The trans-Atlantic flight represented a triumph of navigation. The plane was first sighted at Bangor, North Wales, lying on almost the same parallel of latitude as Harbor Grace. Gatty, whose knowledge of aerial navigation is such that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh engaged him to teach Mrs. Lindbergh the art, apparently struck a headwind over the great circle course to reach his destination.

Sweeping in from the sea, the airmen apparently flew straight across the middle of Ireland, but they were not sighted until they circled over Bangor twice, seeking their bearings.

THIRTY-FOUR HURT; STREET CAR IN WRECK

Children Victims Of Crash When Brakes Fail To Work

PITTSBURGH, June 24.—The laughter and merry-making of fifty children returning home from a picnic suddenly turned into shrieks of horror and pain when a street car in which they were riding leaped from its tracks, crashed through a pole and imbedded itself in a terrace. Thirty-four persons were injured, three seriously.

From his bed in a hospital, Motorman John Harmuth said the air brakes failed, causing the car to run wild down the hill. The fact that the conductor, John Wachter, sensed an accident impending and cried out to the children to lie flat on the floor saved many from more serious injury.

The motorman suffered serious abdominal injuries; Kenneth Jackson, 7 months, Negro, a fractured skull, and Sterling Jackson, 3, Negro, a possible fractured skull. They were the most seriously injured. The accident left the street car a mass of twisted steel.

LAST SUSPECT IN MURDER IS FREED

LIMA, O., June 24.—Liberty having been given all four of the group originally held for investigation, authorities today were still in search of a new clue in their attempt to solve the murders of Earl Truesdale, 29, and Thelma Woods, 17.

Elmer Hubbard, 32, caretaker at the gravel pit at which the bodies of Truesdale and Miss Woods were found following a Memorial Day murder, was released by police yesterday.

Although Hubbard found a blanket in the quarry identified as Truesdale's property, police said they were convinced Hubbard knew nothing about the murder.

HUSBAND AND WIFE DROWNED IN RIVER

CHILLICOTHE, O., June 24.—After an unsuccessful effort to rescue his 17-year-old wife, Willie Harvey, 47, was dead here today from drowning.

Harvey rushed to his wife's aid when she was swept off her feet by the swift current in the Scioto River at Edgewater, near here.

Harvey, only a fair swimmer, leaped into the water while still clothed but drowned almost as he reached Mrs. Harvey and Dennis Burton. Harvey's brother-in-law, who also was trying to save the woman.

Burton, who had gone down twice, reached a boat and saved himself after the other two had disappeared.

FATHER OF XENIA BEATEN BY ROBBERS AT COUNTRY HOME

Isaac Slagle, 82, Kenton, O., father of B. H. Slagle, Home Ave., this city, is in a serious condition suffering from injuries inflicted by burglars who attempted to rob him at his home near Kenton, Tuesday noon. He received several fractured ribs, a scalp wound and a cut on the ear. His condition is serious because of his advanced age.

Particulars concerning the hold-up have not been learned as Mr. Slagle was alone at the time and since has been conscious only at times. He returned to his home Tuesday morning from another farm and after remaining in the house a few minutes went to his garden to work. When he returned he was accosted by the men, although it is not known how many there were. It is thought that robbery was their intention as it is said Mr. Slagle had a considerable amount of money hidden in the house. The only articles stolen were two revolvers.

Mr. Slagle was held up and robbed of $3,700 at his home May 10.

TWO FLEET PLANES IN OCEAN FLIGHTS

government-backed exploits, today's dual adventure represented merely the unquenchable spirit of adventure and daring of four men as far apart in their personalities and make-up as the poles.

There was Post, a veteran aviation barn-stormer from Oklahoma, as taciturn as he is calm, whose "message to the world" before his take-off across the ocean was summed up in the words: "Let's go!"

Then there was his navigator, Gatty, equally calm, but methodic, almost studious in his participation in the gallant adventure. Conceded one of the most capable of American flyers, he taught Mrs. Anne Lindbergh the secrets of aerial navigation. A native of Australia, he has a wife and three children in Los Angeles.

Then Hillig, middle-aged, phlegmatic, photographer. Attaining wealth after years of hard work, he tried to fly aboard the Graf Zeppelin on one of the dirigible's trans-Atlantic trips. Something went wrong with the booking of his passage and the craft went without him. He sued the Zeppelin Company, and with the money he received, purchased the plane in which he is now out over the Atlantic.

And lastly is Holtriss, a smiling youth who came to this country from Denmark only seven years ago. Just before they left Harbor Grace, Hillig laughingly described the voyage as that of "a couple of immigrants returning home."

Hillig and Holtriss planned to streak over Ireland, England and Holland, hoping to reach Copenhagen after twenty-eight hours of continuous flying. They planned eventually to extend their trip to Berlin.

He will serve his internship at Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton.

Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Ream, Bowersville and Miss Mary Ruth Wood, Wilmington, attended the graduation exercises and visited in Atlantic City before returning home.

McKay - Kohler Nuptials Celebrated Tuesday

SIMPLICITY marked the nuptials of Miss Mildred McKay, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. McKay, and Mr. Charles H. Kohler, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Kohler, Wilmington, at the McKay home, Wilmington Pike, seven miles south of Xenia, Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

Proceeding the ceremony Miss Marjorie Street, this city, pianist, played "Venetian Love Song" by Nevin and Miss Lorena Stephens, Wilmington, sang "At Dawning" and "I Love You Truly." At the approach of the wedding party Miss Street played the wedding march from "Lohengrin" and during the service she played selections from "Woodland Sketches" by McDowell.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Rowena McKay, as maid of honor. They came down an open stairway and took their places in the parlor before an improvised altar of greenery banked on each side with large baskets of pink and white roses. They were met at the altar by the groom and his attendant, Mr. Charles Kirk, Washington, D. C. The double ring service was read by the Rev. R. T. Stimmel, pastor of the M. E. Church, Wilmington.

The bride was charming in a gown of lovely green chiffon, made with a high waistline and a long full skirt. The only trimming of the dress was a white satin belt and tiny ruffles on the skirt. Her accessories were white and her only ornament was a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a bridal bouquet of white roses and baby breath. The maid of honor wore a frock of yellow embroidered organdy. Her accessories were beige and she carried an arm bouquet of garden flowers.

Following the wedding service an ice course was served to sixty guests. A rose and white color scheme was carried out in the appointments and large bouquets of summer flowers decorated the rooms of the McKay home.

Late Tuesday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Kohler left on a motor trip to Washington, D. C., Atlantic City and points of interest in the East. The bride's going-away outfit was a black silk crepe ensemble with white accessories. They expect to be gone a week or ten days and upon their return will reside at 508 N. Spring St., Wilmington.

Mrs. Kohler is a graduate of Caesar Creek High School with the class of 1925 and Wilmington College with the class of 1929. For the past two years she has been teaching at Bryan High School, Yellow Springs. She is a member of Alpha Phi Kappa sorority and the Xenia Business and Professional Women's Club.

Mr. Kohler is a graduate of Wilmington High School with the class of 1928 and is employed by the Wilmington Oil Co.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Whoso is wise, and will observe these things, even they shall understand the loving kindness of the Lord.—Psalm, cvii, 43.

SELF CONTROL

Marcus Aurelius, the wise philosopher once said: "It is sufficient for a man to apply himself wholly to the tendency of that spirit which is within him and truly and really to serve it. His service doth consist in this that a man keep himself pure from passion, from all rashness and vanity and from all manner of discontent."

"Speak that which seemeth unto thee most just, only speak it kindly, modestly and without hypocrisy."

"To keep within the compass of true moderation, is proper to a man who hath a perfect and invincible soul."

"To live happily is an inward power of the soul."

"Every man's happiness depends upon himself. If I will it is in my power to keep out of this my soul all wickedness, all trouble and confusion."

"To be cheerful and courageous in all sudden chances and accident."

"To love moderation and gravity; to do my business thoroughly and without complaint."

"The art of true living teaches a man, whatsoever falls upon him that he may be ready for it and that nothing may cast him down."

POSSIBLE RESIDENTS

Our people all have an interest in seeing more residents come in to make their homes in our community. If within a few years our population could increase 25 percent, there would be 25 percent more jobs, and the profits of business, the amounts paid in wages, the sums available for public enterprises, would be increased in proportion.

The possibility of securing new residents, then, is something that is worth while for everyone to bear in mind. Let us all talk up our community when people ask about it. If we do business with them, let us serve them so enthusiastically that they will like the trade spirit of the place. If we meet them socially, let us be so cordial that they say our city is a good friendly place to live in.

SENDING STUDENTS

A report that Moscow is sending seventy Russian engineering students to this country to finish their education is followed by a statement from Washington that each student who comes to this country from the domains of the Soviets and makes application for temporary admission to the United States will be considered as an individual, and that no recognition will be given any group request to be allowed past Ellis Island. The individual investigations will be searching.

This is the way the matter ought to be handled. A student from Russia or from any other country may be desirable or he may be undesirable. Whether he is or not, depends upon his health, character, disposition and financial standing. The most important and significant questions asked of any proteges of Moscow who come this way will be regarding the extent of their communistic leanings and practices, and the government will be quite justified in declining to accept as a sufficient answer pledges not to indulge in propaganda while in America. A Red's word or oath is worthless in that connection, nor is there any particular reason why the United States should welcome here young people who come merely to perfect weapons for subsequent use against this country.

Of course, there is another aspect of this last point. The students chosen by Moscow to send to the United States are reputed to be "the cream of the Soviet engineering institutions, picked for general high intelligence, proficiency in their respective branches of engineering and knowledge of the English language." It is possible that if they come here as observers at first hand American institutions, and American prosperity and standards of living, they may learn some things the Soviet overlords are not sending them here to learn.

THE PUBLIC AND DISARMAMENT

Possibly the most important sentence in the very voluminous report sent by the American Secretary of State to the League of Nations, covering the entire military and naval strength of the United States, is this: "The Secretary of State entertains the hope that other nations may thus be encouraged to lay their figures before the public without delay."

It is both unusual and gratifying to find the head of a foreign office thus urging that the public be taken into the confidence of the governments of the world. It is a recognition of the fact that the great problem of disarmament is going to be settled, not by the convictions and the prejudices of admirals, generals and diplomats, but by the peoples of the respective nations involved. If all these nations, prior to the Disarmament Conference, shall follow the example, let us say, of Russia, which has already filed its report with the League Secretariat, with no demand for publicity, the conference will be a star chamber proceeding, from which little may be hoped.

Only if the people at home, the people who are back of the movement for general reductions and limitation of armaments, shall be fully informed as to the degree to which their respective governments are committed to military policies and expenditures can there be assurance of success in the conference.

This great forward step taken by the United States Government puts a very definite and specific quietus upon the assertion so frequently made that the Hoover Administration would take no active interest in the Disarmament Conference. It demonstrates to the world that while the size of its military establishment may not be such as to enable the United States to make considerable reductions in order to induce similar reductions on the part of foreign countries, the United States is perfectly ready to let the whole world know what it has in the way of a fighting force and to enter into the conference, the ultimate purpose of which is to see that at least that force shall never be augmented, but may in time be reduced in common with those of other nations.

It is the first manifestation of the moral force which the United States will undoubtedly exercise at the conference. It indicates a willingness to deal with other nations with the utmost frankness and to encourage similar openness of purpose and method on their part.

The action of the Administration in this matter is the most encouraging evidence that could have been given that the United States will go to Geneva eager to accomplish actual limitation of armaments, and ready to present for the consideration of the world the figures from which may be deduced the extent to which it can join in any actual reductions. — Christian Science Monitor.

One thing must be said for Chicago. The town would like to pull itself out of its hole.

May Irwin says that vaudeville went into a slump because it was "clean." Yes, it was decent, but we do not think that it died from any over-application of the scrubbing brush. In spots it was quite snappy.

Senator Brookhart says he thinks the "progressives" will carry eight states in the next presidential election. We wonder how many the senator really thinks they will carry, if any.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.—A cosmopolitan town is a town where the chewing gum ads on the subway stations are printed in half a dozen different languages.

READ AND WEEP

You know Libby Holman? The gal from out Cincinnati way who hit New York several years ago with a palate an eighth of an inch askew that produced a strangely voluptuous, haunting voice that gave Broadway a new thrill? Yeah, that's the same girl.

Listen to her: "In five years I hope to have enough money saved up to give me a sure income of $15,000 a year. I'll go to France and get a villa. Then I'll concentrate on the development of my mind. I want to be rich inside."

She could stay here and eat a French fruit cake. That would make her rich inside, sure enough, and she could scatter the $15,000 a year in the town where she made it.

But what's the use arguing?

CHANEL EXPLAINS

Says Chanel, the famous Parisian Shimmy Architect:

"I am not an artist. In fact I am the opposite. An artist creates a picture that is intended to startle the observer and in a hundred years the picture is considered beautiful. I create a dress that pleases at once, and which in six months will look ridiculous."

All the world's a stage and some of us are our own best press agents.

COSTLY PRESTIGE

The road, for smaller opera companies, is almost a thing of the past. Increased traveling expenses and repeated fakes perpetrated on the public have killed the business in the smaller cities. The two major companies that go on tour at the end of each season have driven larger troupes from the large centers.

With all this in mind if you have a good natural voice and have spent from $10,000 to $50,000 training it, you may have a presentation in grand opera in New York for $2,500.

If you only have a half a voice, or three-quarters, it will cost from $500 to $1,500 more because it will be necessary to hire a better supporting cast.

Opera, outside the Metropolitan and the Chicago Civic Opera Company, is one amusement field where the debutante is the impresario's delight. In fact, if it were not for the debut, the half dozen minor managers who still exist in Greater New York would have to open Red Ink Parlors or weave spaghetti.

Why anyone should wish to make a debut with practically no prospect of employment is a puzzle. But the managers, the mezzo-sopranos, the contraltos and occasionally a tenor, continue to plunk down their money.

STRANGE, BUT TRUE

A study of physical examination records of 100,000 native born adult males reveals that on the average the business man is in better physical shape than the professional man, the farmer or the skilled-trade worker.

He has better eyesight than the worker, better teeth than the farmer and fewer defects of the respiratory tract than men in the other groups.

He does himself with too many "ant" medicines—more often "poultices" than he farmer—but this indiscretion does not seem to harm him much.

There was one time, there, when The Tired Business Man of the city was in a bad way; but Old Doctor Fio, Ziefeld and a few others took him in hand and suggested a regimen of two-and-a-half worked wonders.

The world doesn't know its greatest men.

SEVEN-EIGHTHS OF AN ICEBERG IS BELOW WATER

WASHINGTON.—There will be an extra session of congress yet, predicts Executive Secretary Benjamin C. Marsh of the People's Lobby (Prof. John Dewey of Columbia university, president), basing his prophecy on a poll of the lawmakers, who favor it so overwhelmingly, he says, that he does not believe President Hoover will deem it judicious to disregard their wishes.

"The president is on record, it is true," recalls Secretary Marsh, "as of the opinion that a majority of the legislators agreed with him in considering a special session unwise. However, it was of the seventy-first congress he was speaking. I am referring to members of the new one, the seventy-second, elected last fall."

"Probably the summons, if issued, as I expect, will be for an 'early' rather than an 'extra' session, but the adjective is unimportant. The People's Lobby wants it convened in September, October at the latest. Anyway, I am convinced it cannot be delayed beyond November, or a full month ahead of the regular meeting date, in order to give time for unemployment measures before really severe weather sets in."

Even in the event of an economic trend upward from the present prolonged depression (and Secretary Marsh, recently back from a tour of inspection which took him through much of the west, denies that he saw signs of speedy improvement) the People's Lobby insists that the coming winter will be harder upon millions of workers and their families than either 1920-21 or 1922-23.

"It is certain," he argues, "that no appreciable dent will be made in unemployment so soon, and such savings as helped some of these unfortunates through their first and second winters of idleness are gone now, practically to the last cent."

"Not one family in thousands, anywhere, in the wage-dependent class, can survive a third jobless season without nearly 100 per cent assistance."

On the strength of information given him by many relief administrators with whom he has talked, Secretary Marsh insists that relief measures upon voluntarily-contributed aid has proved a failure, for the simple reason, he explains, that those who are disposed to contribute liberally have not the means to contribute enough, while most of those with ample resources contribute too sparingly or not at all.

"Obviously," comments Marsh, "the only means of insuring adequate contributions from the superabundantly wealthy, is by surtaxation of large incomes. To provide these levies as soon as possible, that they may be made effective against the current year's incomes, and thus become available in 1932, is one of the urgent reasons for an extra congressional session."

Aside from unemployment insurance (frowned on by President Hoover) and other permanent economic readjustments, the People's Lobby's program calls for a $250,000,000 federal appropriation to tide the involuntarily idle and their families through the winter, and for a $3,000,000,000 bond issue, not only to broaden the government's public building activities but for such purposes as housing, to guarantee minimum rentals.

"Of course," agrees Secretary Marsh, "this will involve much higher taxation of swollen fortunes."

"As a practical proposition, perhaps corporation imposts should be held down, because of the great number of folks in moderate circumstances who own small amounts of stock in big industrial enterprises, but I would be glad to see the country's vast individual incomes paying into the treasury at approximately the World war-time rate. In addition to serving present emergency requirements, it would result in a much-needed redistribution of wealth and insure a national all-around prosperity for the future, as distinguished from prosperity for the very few alone, with a precarious existence or actual destitution for the rest."

SUGGESTIONS

For Spots of Liquid
When water, coffee or other liquid is spilled on your mohair furniture leaves a dark spot, try sponging the whole section on which the spot is located with a sponge wet in lukewarm clear water, rubbing gently against the nap while working.

Shellac Your Books
Something new in preservation and sanitation. A coat of shellac applied to the outer cover of a book preserves the surface and colors. This is particularly valuable for children's books and the cook book, since it provides a washable surface.

New Government Circular
A new government pamphlet has recently been issued for the guidance of those who collect mushrooms in fields and woods. It is called "Circular 143-C. Some Common Mushrooms and How to Know Them." Copies may be secured free by applying to the office of information, U. S. department of agriculture, Washington, D. C.

To Save Curtains
At the bottom of bedroom curtains put hooks and, up as far as you can conveniently reach, sew eyes to correspond. At night hook the bottom of the curtains up to prevent them from blowing out after the windows are opened. In the same way hook up the ends of portieres when dusting or sweeping the floors and they are out of harm's way.

Vegetarianism Easy to Practice

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The subject of vegetarianism is always discussed with heat. It does not seem to lend itself to a calm and judicious consideration. Both sides of the controversy begin to call each other names, and the air loses the calm necessary for scientific truth.

It is pretty hard at this time of year, when corn on the cob, and new potatoes, and new peas, and beans, and strawberries, are coming into market, to view vegetarianism with complete disfavor. My advice is to be a vegetarian during June and July and to more or less lapse from the strict path during the remainder of the year.

Strict vegetarianism has, of course, never been practiced by any human being. Even Bernard Shaw and Upton Sinclair got some milk while they were young. That accounts, in my opinion, for "Man and Superman," although I am not sure what accounts for the novels of Mr. Sinclair.

There are, as you probably know, several kinds of vegetarians. The extremists believe in eating only fruit and nuts. Their theory is that food grown away from contact with the earth, ripening in the pure air and sunshine, out towards the sky and the clouds, must partake of some of those heavenly qualities and be good for the soul. It all sounds very poetical, but it is awfully tough on the disposition.

The lacto-ovo-vegetarians do not eat meat—first, because it seems cruel to them to sacrifice animals for that purpose and, secondly, because they think meat is unwholesome and tends to physical and moral degeneration. But they allow eggs and milk and dairy products generally.

They are wise in this because it is difficult for most human digestive tracts to function economically without some animal protein. Animal forms of protein are more easily digested and absorbed into the body structure than are vegetable proteins. The body must have some protein and it is, of course, possible to obtain it from certain vegetables such as beans and peas and grains in considerable quantities, but it is not easy for the human digestive tract to convert this form of protein into utilizable material.

The most carefully conducted experiments on a vegetarian diet for carnivorous or omnivorous animals were those of Sienker, who tried to bring up rats on a strictly vegetarian diet. These animals grew well for a time, but never got bigger than about three-fifths the size of rats fed on a general diet. The vegetarian rats lived, on the average, 535 days, while the others lived 1,020 days.

So far, then, as any proof that vegetarians live longer than "carnivorous eaters," the evidence is just the other way.

Editor's Note: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin for each and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth Street, Cleveland, O. Woman Worries Wife

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"Dear Virginia Lee: I am a young married lady and have a little girl. My husband was quite friendly with a certain woman for about two years before we were married, and often used to call on her and beat about the bush to meet her on the street and keep it a secret from me."

"This went on for a long time after we were married, until she went away, and now he writes her, but never says a thing to me about it."

"I love my husband and he is very good to me. I have talked to him about it, but it doesn't do any good. This woman has a lot to do with it, as she works on his sympathy. It breaks my heart to have him do this, and, Virginia Lee, I will appreciate it very much if you can help me."

"WORRIED BLONDY"
Why not be the unusual type of woman big enough to let Friend Husband have a woman friend whom he can love, Blondy? You say your husband loves you and is good to you. The chances are that this woman means no more to him than a congenial friend with whom he likes to talk and to whom he likes to write. She may need friendship and encouragement, and if you make up your mind not to bother about the matter, but to understand it, it will never amount to anything more.

Jealousy on your part may magnify the thing to an importance it need not assume, and make a real affair of it. Just accept the fact that your husband and this woman are friends and that they correspond. Never allude to her in any unfriendly or disparaging way. Half the time the secrecy with which a man and woman have to veil a purely platonic friendship makes an intrigue out of it. Don't give them a chance to do this.

Brownie: Better drop the boy, at least partly, as your mother objects to your friendship. Go out with other boys and have a good time.

"Dear Virginia Lee: My brother attends church and works, but I am much worried about him. He despises to talk or to answer any kind of question, often will not answer at all; then, again, after several minutes will reply, 'yes'."

And if he is not ready to be married, why not find another girl who is interested in making a little home and keeping house with you? That will give you a bit of home life and you may be more satisfied.

Discovers Secret of Girl's Charm

By GLADYS GLAD

At a dinner party the other night I met a girl whom, for the sake of convenience, I will call Myra. I was extremely interested in meeting this girl for the very simple reason that men always flocked about her, while women turned up their noses and remarked: "What men see in her, I do not know!"

She really was not a bit pretty. Her features were irregular. Her eyes were pretty enough, and her voice was lovely. But her upper teeth protruded slightly, and her nose was decidedly too long for beauty. No one in the wide, wide world ever would have termed her beautiful.

Yet, as I watched the men standing around her, I noticed a certain charm in her every move. As was I thought, the most immaculate person in the room.

And that was the secret of her charm! I noticed every detail of her gowning, her coiffure, her hands, and even the dainty vanity that she carried. I watched her powder her nose. Before all those men—and the little powder puff was brand new! She wiped the excess powder from her face gently with a dainty little handkerchief.

of the greatest secrets of charm—absolute cleanliness! Most women think that they are immaculate about themselves if they take a daily bath, have their hair shampooed once a week and their fingernails manicured. Yet they wear gowns that are slightly soiled or need pressing. Their handkerchiefs are often crumpled. And they haul from their vanity cases little powder puffs that have done duty for weeks.

If more women realized the beauty that lies in absolute cleanliness, no one would ever see a dirty powder puff, a crumpled handkerchief, or a soiled gown!

ANSWERS TO QUERIES
Electrolysis
Worried: It is not particularly painful to have superfluous hair removed by electrolysis. The cost depends upon the size and strength of the growth to be removed. I know nothing of a detrimental nature about the soap you name.

Measurements
Rather Curious: You should weigh about 125 pounds. Your measurements should approximately be: Bust 33 inches, waist 27 inches, hips 35 inches, thigh 18 inches, hips 35 inches and ankle 8 1/2 inches.

Bleach
Auburn Hair, Brown Eyes: The peroxide and ammonia solution is not injurious to the skin. It may have a slight drying effect, but that can be counteracted by the application of a bit of cold cream to the skin.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

The Softball Commission was gratified by the generous response of fans when the first of a series of collections was taken at Cox Field Monday night to wipe out the existing debt and defray the expense attached to softball during the remainder of the season.

Commissioners estimate that about $100 is necessary to pay off outstanding obligations and leave a balance sufficient to purchase enough new balls to last until Labor Day, when the season ends.

More than one-third of the sum desired was raised at Monday night's collection and contributions will be solicited each evening this week, or until the goal is attained.

As an illustration of the friendly attitude the fans are taking in the matter, and demonstrating their general willingness to cooperate with the softball commission in its financial dilemma, one youngster in the crowd, Fred Baldner said, had only two pennies but insisted upon giving them to one of the collectors. He was anxious to help out the cause and the commission hopes this same spirit will prevail until the quota sought is obtained.

A peculiar decision, which apparently passed unnoticed, was made during last Saturday's baseball game between the Xenia Merchants and the House of David.

Pitcher Ankeny was on third base and was taking a long lead off the bag when the next batter hit a liner toward third, the ball striking the runner before he could move from his tracks.

Under the rules, if the ball was a fair hit, the runner was out and the batter either receives credit for a hit, or is thrown out at first. In any event the batter is supposed to run to first and some play should be made involving him.

If the ball was ruled foul, the runner could not be declared out and the batter would remain at the plate.

In this instance, the umpire called the runner out, ruling the ball was hit in fair territory. The strange part of the matter was that the batter made no effort to run to first and the bearded team, after the ball had been retrieved, made no attempt to make a play for the batter. The batsman remained at the plate, as if nothing had happened, and the game proceeded. Rife, second baseman, who was the batter, then popped to the catcher.

The Downtowner softball team has developed a faculty for playing extra-inning games, having participated in three straight overtime contests. The Downtowners engaged in two straight doubleheaders, then played the Graham Paints to a 5 to 5 tie in eleven innings, next beat Wood's Barbers, 9 to 5 in ten innings, then squeezed out a 5 to 4 win over the Crittermen in ten rounds Monday night. They are at least getting more exercise out of their games than the other teams.

GOLFDOM KINGS TO ATTEND BIG DINNER

COLUMBUS, O., June 24.—Nearly all of the Who's Who of Golfdom will be here Thursday night for the international dinner to be held as a social feature of the Ryder Cup matches.

With Bobby Jones having accepted an invitation to speak, those in charge anticipate an ostentatious program.

H. H. Ramsey of New York, president of the United States Golf association and the lord high of everything in administrative golf circles, also has consented to fill a place on the speaking program.

Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion, also may speak, although he is now only listed as one of the guests.

Tunney, an ardent golf fan, will be in Columbus to attend another function, and probably will be in the gallery during some of the most important play.

Most of the well known professionals who will be here Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday for the national convention of the Professional Golfers Association of America have made reservations for the dinner.

TENTH FRAME RALLY WINS FIRST; ZENNI HOMERS FOR SECOND

Parish Lads Spring Surprise To Shock Central High

Central High's hopes of overtaking the league-leading Krippendorf team, were dealt a knockout blow Tuesday night when the St. Brigid softballers, after losing six straight games, sprang a distinct upset by sweeping both ends of a double-header with the Buccaneers at Cox Field. The scores were 4 to 3 and 10 to 0.

Becoming a sick and tired of serving as a door mat for the other American League teams, the parochial school lads emerged from the damp and gloomy recesses of their dungeon abode into the bright sunshine and gave Central High something to think about—gave the Bucs, in fact, a swell headache.

The double win did not lift St. Brigid entirely out of the league cellar but it tightened the league scramble considerably.

S. Brigid came from behind to win the opening engagement in a game that required an extra round to decide the winner. Central scored twice in the second stanza on two errors and singles by Luttrell and Confer, but St. Brigid trounced this lead in the fifth when Haller was safe on an error and Murray unburdened himself of a homer.

A single by Banker and Luttrell's double put the Bucs out in front again in the sixth, only to have St. Brigid even the count once more in the seventh on four straight singles by Kennedy, Fletcher, Haller and Murray. In the extra round, singles by Zenni and Hornick and an error filled the bases with none out. Fuller popped out but Kennedy drove a fly to left and after the catch, Zenni raced home with the winning run.

Storer, pitching for Central, was shelled for thirteen hits, the diminutive Pesavento getting three singles. Anderson, making his debut as a hurler for St. Brigid, was effective but wild. After the first two batters had been retired in the seventh, Anderson lost control completely, passed two batters, and "Larry" Hornick, regular pitcher, was called to the mound. He got the side out and also held the Bucs hitless in the next round, although walking one batter. Central made only six hits, Luttrell contributing two of these.

A home run by Joe Zenni, shortstop, with the bases empty in the sixth inning was the deciding factor in the second game, St. Brigid winning by the smallest possible score of 1 to 0. After five scoreless innings, the dark-complexioned youth of Armenian persuasion drove a long liner to left center and easily made the circuit.

Hornick allowed Central only four hits, not more than one in any single inning, while St. Brigid obtained nine strikes at the expense of Blancy, hurler for the Bucs. Zenni, in addition to his game-winning circuit smash, also hit a single. Huston accounted for two of Central's hits. "Lupino" Lane, the Central left fielder with the tricky legs, received four bases on balls in the twin bill.

Three spectacular catches were made during the two games. Joe Fletcher, St. Brigid second baseman, speared a liner with his left hand, and Hornick, left fielder, made a shoe-string catch. Both were game-saving catches in the opener. "Mo" Hyman, Buccaneers third baseman, also made a pretty left-handed stab of a line drive.

The Lang Chevrolets and Red Wings will clash Wednesday night in their long-awaited double-header. Lineups:

PROPER AUTO TURN WILL BE DISCUSSED

CLEVELAND, O., June 24.—The controversy here over left hand turns in traffic has been placed in the hands of a special committee appointed by the permanent traffic commission.

The rotary, or outside turn, now enforced here, will be discussed by the committee which consists of Traffic Court Judge Julius Kowachy, Common Pleas Judge Lee Skeel, Commission Chairman Fred H. Caley, and other traffic authorities.

The inside turn, as employed in most large cities, is to be studied by the committee and if it proves that it is better suited for metropolitan traffic it will be adopted here.

WOOSTER PROF TO PREPARE BIOGRAPHY

WOOSTER, O., June 24.—Dr. Waldo H. Dunn, head of Wooster College's English department, received word from Wellington, New Zealand, that the family of Sir Robert Stout, former prime minister of the British Dominion, who died in 1930, decided to allow him to prepare the authorized biography of the statesman.

Stout was also chief justice of the supreme court of New Zealand and was a member of the legislative council, or senate, of the Dominion.

Dr. Dunn has been asked to visit New Zealand as soon as possible to view private papers of the late statesman.

KENTUCKY WILL GET BLUE-GRASS AGAIN FROM OHIO FIELDS

LONDON, O., June 24.—Kentucky, the blue-grass state, will look to Ohio again this year for blue grass seed with which to increase its yield.

Scores of blue grass seed strippers are being worked in this section to gather in the seed that later will be shipped to Kentucky and, in turn, shipped to other states in the union from the state that now holds the blue-grass title.

Each year, for many years, Kentucky seedsmen have come into Central Ohio to harvest the fine crop of blue grass seed from the famous pastures of this section.

This year, seed experts stated, the crop is one of the best produced in the past ten years, the seeds being large and heavy with seed of extra high quality.

Farm experts stated that harvesting the blue grass seed crop is one of the best forms of farm relief ever offered the stricken farmers and farm owners of this section, since the stripping of the seed from the grass not only does not injure the pastures but actually serves as an advantage to the farm owners in reduction of weeds in the fields and in the return of cash from a field that already has been turned to account with a flock of sheep.

When the Kentucky seedsmen first began taking blue grass seed from this section, the work was handled by great crews of colored men and boys who of an evening for a month in this section, doing the work for the most part by hand.

Improved machinery has lessened the work and cut down the time required. Bidding for the choice pastures of this section this year is greener than ever before.

PAINTERSVILLE IN WIN OVER EAGLES

Exploding a nine-run rally in the fifth inning, the Paintersville Famous Autos achieved a 14 to 5 triumph over the Eagles Lodge team in a seven-inning softball engagement at Wilmington Tuesday night.

Wilmington scored five runs and made three hits, one a homer by Botts with two on base in the first inning, but thereafter was held hitless and runless. Paintersville collected fourteen hits and each team made three errors.

J. Harris, short fielder for the Autos, was up twice in the big fifth round and contributed a triple and single. Sixty-foot bases were used.

Last Friday evening, the Autos lost to the Elks' Lodge team at Wilmington by a margin of 13 to 7, the seven-inning contest being played with forty-five-foot base lines. Five home runs featured the tilt.

IDLE HOUR WINS

The Idle Hour Club colored softball team won a practice game from Scott's Ice Cream team Tuesday night, the cream freezers proving no match for the Idle Hour lads. The Idle Hours will not get into action again until Thursday night when they engage the Crittermen on the Mulberry St. lot.

OLD ADAGE FAILS

MASSILLON, O., June 24.—Two bolts of lightning became mixed in their courses here during a thunderstorm and struck the same place twice. Within twenty minutes during a severe electrical storm, the C. L. Young residence was hit twice. Both bolts followed the same path, going through the electric light wires and damaging a small lamp.

GIVEN FRANCHISE

Consent of abutting land owners having been obtained, County Commissioners have awarded the Dayton Power and Light Co. a 25-year franchise for construction and maintenance of a pole line for transmission of electricity extending one-tenth of a mile west along the north side of the Columbus Pike in Cedarville Twp.

Hoosier Peach

Maybe you didn't know they grew wonderful peaches in Indiana, but here's one that should leave no doubt in your mind. She's Mary Sargent and is one of six beauties selected by Flo Ziegfeld as the prettiest at De Pauw University, Greencastle, Ind. When the school couldn't decide which of 12 candidates for pulchritude honors was the prettiest, Flo helped to the extent of reducing the field to six. Personally, we vote for Mary.

Arliss Will Introduce New Broadcast Feature

By MILDRED MASON

THE voice of George Arliss, dean of the stage and screen, will be heard over station WLW, Cincinnati, Thursday at 6:45 p. m. when he introduces "The Radio Newsreel of Hollywood," a dramatized serial feature that will be heard hereafter every Thursday night in this area.

Arliss' introduction of the new feature will take the form of a defense of the film capital and will be in line with recent published interviews which he has given out and in which he has taken issue with the critics of motion picture life. Arliss is winner of the medal of the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences for the most distinguished screen performances of last year.

Other celebrities are to appear from week to week on the program. Evalyn Knapp was to have appeared on the second series Thursday, July 2, but because of her serious injury this week it has not been announced who will appear in her place.

To Broadcast Parade

When carefully groomed prize beavers parade for the first time in history down Chicago's famous Michigan Boulevard, one of the most popular avenues of fashion in the world, National Farm and Home Hour announcers, situated at various points of vantage will describe the colorful scene over an NBC network Thursday. Included in the parade to be described over the air will be fifty gaily decorated floats, more than 300 mounted stockyard cow-boys, 300 chiefs in white uniforms and 1,000 beef retailers. The program will be heard over WLW, Cincinnati, at 11:30 a. m.

Col. Roosevelt On Air

Col. Theodore Roosevelt will discuss Porto Rico in an address to be heard Thursday in the United States and Pan-American countries through NBC facilities. Roosevelt, who is governor of Porto Rico, will be heard from New York City where he will address a luncheon of the Pan-American Society. His remarks will be heard over station WPA, New York and associated stations from 12:30 to 1 p. m. and will be projected by shortwave to Latin America. Stations through which his talk will be heard are not available.

His new broadcasting contract is the reason. King's permanent residence is at Great Neck, L. I., but he also maintains a beautiful home in Surrey, in the south of England.

BRINGING UP FATHER

The Mysterious Young Man

By LOUISE GERARD

READ THIS FIRST:

The Theater

Chester Morris is in for a lot of work. With "The Corsair" going into rehearsals, Roland West, the actor's manager and direction, says that he has two forthcoming stories, one of which will be Chester's next picture.

"Love in Chicago" by Charles Walt and "Two Years Before the Mast," a Richard Henry Dale, Jr., tale, are ready for production. Since he owns the rights to both, he is not hurrying a decision but one is to be followed by the other.

"If Love in Chicago" is the choice, Morris will play a young man who rises in power and politics in Chicago and if it is the sea story he will portray the author's own experiences in shipping on a New England boat and sailing around the Horn and up to California.

Casting for "The Corsair" is under way and will have five principal roles. Thelma Todd is one of the first to be chosen.

Richard Arlen is to play a mystery story next instead of Rupert Hughes' sophisticated "No One Man" is the latest decision. Arlen is assigned to one of the leads in "The Man With Red Hair," Hugh Walpole's mystery thriller, which is to be produced with an all-star cast. The former Western star is the second member of the cast selected. Irving Pichel has been given the title role.

Movie fans are to have an opportunity to hear Irene Dunne

4 YEAR OLD TRAFFIC COP

RUSH RUN, O.—A four-year-old girl has turned traffic cop here and has already averted several accidents. Norma Barcus is the youngster who has taken the situation in hand at one of the dangerous railroad crossings in this section. Residents say that even the toughest of truck drivers stop when she shouts commands in a high soprano voice.

OHIO WHEAT LONG - SHORT ON POTATOES AG OFFICIAL FINDS

"This year, Ohio will be short on potatoes and long on wheat," so says Director I. S. Guthery of the Ohio Department of Agriculture.

The average yearly production of potatoes in Ohio is eleven million bushels. Consumption is eighteen million. Last year, production dropped to nine million. This year, estimates predict a crop of thirteen million. Supply will be five million bushels less than demand.

This season, as in the past, thousands of carloads of potatoes will be shipped into this state. Some of these cars will come a thousand miles.

It is hard, for Buckeye farmers, to understand how a grower in Maine, can ship his potatoes halfway across the Nation and compete with Ohio producers. Cost of production is as great in Maine as here. In addition, the one has a long haul freight charge to pay. Still he is able to find a ready market.

The solution of this problem is simple. The farmer in Maine is smart. He knows Ohio folks like quality. He uses care in grading and packing. To find a market for his crop, it must excel that of his competitor.

He knows that many Ohio farmers use slipshod grading methods. He profits by this. The produce he ships has been carefully graded and packed. It will bring enough higher price in Ohio markets to offset the cost of shipping. When his potatoes arrive they are in ready demand. Usually, they are sold before arrival.

While the Ohio farmer has trucked his product a dozen miles or so, and looked in vain for a ready sale, a man, a thousand miles away slipped in and carried home, a top-notch price from a ready buyer. The Ohio farmer could have had this bargain if he had used the same care in the grading and packing of his potatoes.

Each year, millions of dollars that should go into the pockets of the farmers of Ohio are carried away by the fruit and vegetable growers of other states.

When the farmers of this state awaken to the importance of diversified agriculture, and use up-to-the-minute grading and packing methods, the rainbow will again come down in Ohio.

SHADY SPOTS

Bureau of Plant Agriculture,
U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Most gardens have some shady spot, under trees or sheltered by buildings, where the gardener spends hours of tender but fruitless care trying to get a stand of grass. His labor might better be spent establishing certain of the ornamental plants that thrive in just such locations unfavorable to grass.

Horticulturists of the Bureau of Plant Industry point out that one of the most satisfactory ground covers for a Japanese pachysandra. It belongs to the same family as boxwood, is an evergreen and has thick, glossy foliage. For a rockery or rock garden, it is very effective. Although it stands sun well enough in the north, its color and growth are at their best in the south only in partial or dense shade. Young, sturdy plants nine to twelve inches apart give quick effects.

Common periwinkle, or myrtle, is another good ground cover for shady places. It makes an effective substitute for grass on steep terraces where mowing is difficult. Its foliage is dark green and glossy. In spring and early summer it bears blue or white flowers. It is often used as a base planting for evergreen shrubs.

English ivy and Hall Japanese honeysuckle are also satisfactory in shade. Others are little ground ivy, a perennial which makes a dense mat, and moss pink, which flowers profusely.

Shady places need plenty of plant food. Trees draw heavily on the soil both for plant food and moisture. And the gardener must see to it that his ground covers have plenty of both. Decomposed stable manure, bonemeal, and complete fertilizers are advised and also occasional waterings.

Capone's Conviction by Uncle Sam Sounds Death-Knell of Rackets

The Career of Chicago's Master Crook, Who Defied the Law for Ten Years and Got Away with Every Crime on the Calendar, Is Ended. And All Through the Comparatively Petty Offense of Tax Dodging.

When "Scarface" Al Capone humbly pleaded guilty to defrauding the United States Government of tax on his $1,000,000 income, organized crime took a bad fall. It realized that there is a law that cannot be broken by machine gun or "pineapple" and that Uncle Sam can only be goaded so far before he turns. To Elmer L. Irely, Chief of the Intelligence Department at Washington, and Special Agent Frank J. Wilson belongs the credit of weaving the net that left no loophole for the almy Capone to escape justice. They collected the mass of evidence with which United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson bludgeoned the kingpin gangster into an admission of his guilt before Judge Wilkerson. The gates of Fort Leavenworth Penitentiary are yawning not only for Capone but also for his satellites and lieutenants, and Chicago is virtually freed from the reign of terror which held the great city in a stranglehold until Mister Capone got the idea that he could make a "sucker" out of Uncle Sam.

CHICAGO, June 24.—When in his involuntary hermitage at Ft. Leavenworth, "Scarface" Al Capone, erstwhile "Czar of the Underworld," stood humbly before Judge Wilkerson in a Chicago court recently and pleaded a sudden "guilty" to charges of defrauding the United States Government of tax on his $1,000,000 income and of directing a liquor traffic that brought in the staggering sum of $200,000,000 over a ten-year period, he found himself in the same ironic position as the parachute jumper who broke his neck through slipping on the soap in the bathroom.

For ten years Capone has openly sneered at law and order. The ramifications of the crime juggernaut which he controlled extended from the Atlantic to the Pacific seaboard, and from Canada to Mexico. Its agents openly flouted the law and regarded "The Boss" as being above it.

No crime was too petty for inclusion in the Capone repertoire, none too big. He had a finger in every pie from which a plum might be extracted. One could not have a pair of trousers pressed or a shirt laundered in Chicago without indirectly paying tribute to "Alphonse the Great," for laundries and hundreds of kindred industries were either under his "protection" or ceased to exist very shortly.

Murder became monotonous by reason of its frequency. Vice dens were operated without concealment, rum and beer manufactured and smuggled. While the law looked helplessly on, gold in an endless stream flowed into the Capone coffers. It began to be accepted by the decent citizen that the kingpin gangster was indeed above the law.

But a few quiet-faced men in Washington had other ideas and set out to prove them. Elmer L. Irely, chief of the Intelligence Division at the national capital, spread his net for the wily Capone and under the direction of Special Agent Frank J. Wilson the income tax charge was developed. Uncle Sam had finally cornered the slippery racketeer in a trap that was without a loophole, and implacably the trap was sprung.

With the mass of evidence against him in the able hands of United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, incorruptible and fearless of machine gun or pineapple intimidation, Capone did the only thing left for him to do—throw himself on the mercy of the court, in hopes of drawing a lighter sentence than would be the case if he made a fight of it.

The conviction of the "master mind" will have more far-reaching effects than the mere incarceration of Mister Capone in Leavenworth Penitentiary. Already the minor stars and satellites of the crime syndicate he built are fleeing from the wrath of Uncle Sam at whom they sneered, and the "Big Chief's" lieutenants are slated to join him.

NOTRE DAME DRAWS

LAWRENCE, Kas.—So enthusiastic are alumni of the University of Kansas over the scheduling of a football game between the Jayhawkers and Notre Dame in 1932 that a deluge of applications for seats for the game has descended upon Dr. F. C. Allen, director of athletics. Predictions that the demand will be greater than the 40,000 seating capacity of K. U. memorial stadium has caused the rush. Dr. Allen has felt compelled to announce that no orders for seats will be taken before August 1, 1932.
